

Amendments to the Claims:

1 (currently amended):        A method for providing a ~~personal~~ web site, comprising:
generating a ~~personal~~ web site that is associated with a particular user; wherein the web site ~~having~~ is accessed using an address that is identified by a single Uniform Resource Locator (URL), wherein the ~~personal~~ web site includes at least two homepages that are accessed from the address that is identified by the single URL; wherein a first home page is a first web page that is viewable by the particular user and a second home page that is a second web page that is viewable by others and contains information about the particular user; wherein the web site stores information relating to the particular user and accesses information including targeted information, documents and links from different sources; wherein the first home page and the second home page are customizable by the particular user; ~~has an associated first view and an associated second view; and~~

determining an identity of a user attempting to access the web site; wherein determining the identity of the user includes determining when the user is the particular user; and automatically redirecting the user to the first home page when the identity of the user is determined to be the particular user and redirecting the user to the second home page when the identity of the user is not determined to be the particular user.

~~navigating a user to the personal site, wherein the user is navigated to the address and presented with at least one of the first view and the second view depending on the identity of the user.~~

2 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 1, wherein the web site includes a lockdown section that is reserved for an organization; wherein the lockdown section is non-customizable by the particular user such that content that is pushed to the web site by the organization is displayed within at least one of the first home page and the second home page. ~~first view corresponds to a private view and the second view corresponds to a public view.~~

3 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 2, wherein the web site is a default save location for the particular user's documents ~~user is navigated to the private view when the user corresponds to an owner with relation to the personal site.~~

4 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 1, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises providing the user with a selection for generating the personal web site.

5 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 1, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises determining whether the user has permission to generate the personal web site.

6 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 5, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises redirecting the user to a general web site when the user does not have permission to generate the personal web site.

7 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 1, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises determining whether another personal web site already exists that is associated with the user.

8 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 7, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises redirecting the user to the other personal web site when the other personal web site does already exist.

9 (currently amended):        The method of Claim 1, wherein ~~navigating to the personal site further~~ determining when the user is the particular user comprises comparing an identity of an owner associated with the personal web site to the identity of the user.

10 (currently amended):       The method of Claim 9, wherein the particular user is presented an option on the second home page to navigate directly to the first home page when

~~the particular user is viewing the second home page. navigated to the first view when the identity of the owner and the identity of the user are the same, and the user is navigated to the second view when the identity of the owner and the identity of the user are different.~~

11 (currently amended): A system for providing a web site that is associated with a particular user ~~personal sites~~, comprising:

a server including a network communication device coupled to a network and a data store, and a personal site application configured to perform actions, including:

generating a web site that is associated with a particular user; wherein the web site is accessed using an address that is identified by a single Uniform Resource Locator (URL), wherein the web site includes at least two homepages that are accessed from the address that is identified by the single URL; wherein a first home page is a first web page that is viewable by the particular user and a second home page that is a second web page that is viewable by others and contains information about the particular user; wherein the web site stores information relating to the particular user and accesses information including targeted information, documents and links from different sources; wherein the first home page and the second home page are customizable by the particular user;

determining an identity of a user attempting to access the web site; wherein determining the identity of the user includes determining when the user is the particular user; and automatically redirecting the user to the first home page when the identity of the user is determined to be the particular user and redirecting the user to the second home page when the identity of the user is not determined to be the particular user.

navigating a user to the personal site, wherein the user is navigated to the address and presented with at least one of the first view and the second view depending on the identity of the user.

12 (currently amended): The system of Claim 11, wherein generating the personal web site further comprises determining whether the user has permission to generate the personal web site.

13 (currently amended): The system of Claim 12, wherein generating the ~~personal web~~ site further comprises presenting the user with an error message when the user does not have permission to generate the ~~personal web~~ site.

14 (currently amended): The system of Claim 11, wherein generating the ~~personal web~~ site further comprises determining whether another ~~personal web~~ site already exists that is associated with the user.

15 (currently amended): The system of Claim 14, wherein generating the ~~personal web~~ site further comprises redirecting the user to the other ~~personal web~~ site when the other ~~personal web~~ site does already exist.

16 (currently amended): The system of Claim 11, wherein ~~navigating to the personal web site further determining when the user is the particular user~~ comprises comparing an identity of an owner associated with the ~~personal web~~ site to the identity of the user.

17 (currently amended): The system of Claim 16, wherein the particular user is presented an option on the second home page to navigate directly to the first home page when the particular user is viewing the second home page, wherein the user is navigated to the first view when the identity of the owner and the identity of the user are the same, and the user is navigated to the second view when the identity of the owner and the identity of the user are different.

18 (currently amended): The system of Claim 11, further comprising setting the ~~personal web~~ site as a default save location for resources generated by an owner associated with the personal site.

19 (currently amended): A method for generating a ~~personal web~~ site for a particular user, comprising:

determining whether a user has permission to generate the ~~personal web~~ site; wherein the web site is accessed using an address that is identified by a single Uniform Resource Locator (URL), wherein the web site includes at least two homepages that are accessed from the address that is identified by the single URL; wherein a first home page is a first web page that is viewable by an owner of the web site and a second home page that is a second web page that is viewable by others and contains information about the owner; wherein the web site stores information relating to the owner and accesses information including targeted information, documents and links from different sources; wherein the first home page and the second home page are customizable by the owner;

determining whether the ~~personal web~~ site already exists; and creating the ~~personal web~~ site when the user has permission to generate the ~~personal web~~ site and the ~~personal web~~ site does not already exist.

20 (currently amended):      The method of Claim 19, wherein creating the ~~personal web~~ site further comprises calling a ~~personal web~~ site provisioning code.

21 (currently amended):      The method of Claim 19, wherein creating the ~~personal web~~ site further comprises redirecting the user to the ~~personal web~~ site after the ~~personal web~~ site is created.

22 (currently amended):      A method for navigating to a ~~personal web~~ site, comprising:

determining a user identity associated with a user navigating to the ~~personal web~~ site; wherein the web site is accessed using an address that is identified by a single Uniform Resource Locator (URL), wherein the web site includes at least two homepages that are accessed from the address that is identified by the single URL; wherein a first home page is a first web page that is viewable by an owner of the web site and a second home page that is a second web page that is viewable by others and contains information about the owner; wherein the web site stores information relating to the owner and accesses information including targeted information, documents and links from different sources; wherein the first home page and the second home page are customizable by the owner;

determining an owner identity associated with ~~an~~ the owner of the ~~personal web~~ site to which the user is navigating;

comparing the user identity to the owner identity;

redirecting the user to a first home page view that is associated with the ~~personal web~~ site when the user identity and the owner identity are the same; and redirecting the user to a second home page view that is associated with the ~~personal web~~ site when the user identity and the owner identity are different.

23 (currently amended):      The method of Claim 22, wherein the first home page view includes a section that is populated with content from an organization to which the owner of the web site is affiliated. ~~corresponds to a private view and the second view corresponds to a public view.~~

24 (currently amended):      The method of Claim 22, wherein at least one section of the first home page and the second home page contained within the personal site is different depending on the user identity.

25 (currently amended):      A method for providing a web site, comprising:
generating a web site that includes at least three different home pages that are accessed through a single Uniform Resource Locator (URL) depending on an identity of a user accessing the web site; wherein a first home page is a first web page that is viewable by the owner; a second home page that is a second web page that is viewable by a first group and contains information about the owner and the first group; and a third home page that is a third web page that is viewable by a second group and contains information about the owner and the second group; wherein the web site stores information relating to the owner, the first group, the second group; documents generated by the owner; and wherein the first web page includes access to information including targeted information, documents and links from different sources;
determining an identity of the user accessing the web site; and automatically redirecting the user to the first home page when the identity of the user is determined to be the owner; redirecting the user to the second home page when the identity of the user is determined to be the first group; and redirecting the user to the third home page when the identity of the user is determined to be the second group.

for setting a personal site as the designated personal site associated with a particular user, comprising:

initiating code to set the personal site as the designated personal site; and running a security check to authenticate the setting of the personal site as the default save location.

26 (currently amended):      The method of claim 26, further comprising making the web site a default location to save documents that are created by the owner of the web site.
updating an directory system with the location of the personal site.